

Composer's Note

Triple Excelsis and Singel Excelsis were both commissioned by Susanne Kujala. We decided, that I would compose first a work for three organs and use the same material later for a solo work, which would be more practical to perform. Triple Excelsis was composed for the three organs of the Helsinki Music Centre. Singel Excelsis on the other hand is the solo work. The source of the material for Singel Excelsis is the solo part at the end of Triple Excelsis.

I am fascinated by the rhythmic characteristics of the organ. Many of the vibrations and rhythmic fluctuations derived from the overtone series are extremely interesting. Also the natural virtuosity of the instrument is utterly fascinating. In fast passages the rhythmic accuracy needs very quick attack. A slower attack on the other hand makes it possible to turn the attention to gestures and figures, while details get more blurred. Different "attack features" of the organ stops allow shaping of very diverse rhythmic figures in time and space.

Antti Auvinen

In the music of Antti Auvinen (b. 1974), a modernist compositional language is fused with a powerful sense of drama and a charged intensity generated through the explosive clash of conflicting tensions. Auvinen's soundworld is multifaceted and employs unusual combinations of instruments and a wide variety of modern, often rough and noisy extended techniques. His rich and expressive use of rhythms extends from the meditative stasis of freely notated fields to the edgy, insistent energy of multiple superimposed rhythmic layers.

Auvinen's works regularly take their inspiration from the pressing issues and problems so ubiquitous in our modern lives. He does not write explicitly programmatic music, but his works always force the listener to ask questions and to take a stance. The titles of recent orchestral works like Junker Twist (2015), Himmel Punk (2016) and Turbo Aria (2017) conjure up strong images and suggest associations that are perhaps uncommon in the world of 'classical' concert music. Awarded the acclaimed Teosto Prize, his opera Bliss (2015) rejects the traditional conventions of the genre and instead incorporates a strong multimedia element, which Auvinen exploits using, for instance, video material of analytical discussions surrounding mental illness to enhance the drama about a religiously motivated fratricide.

Singel Excelsis

for Organ Solo

Antti Auvinen
2012

♩ ≥ 86

The score is written for organ solo in 5/4 time. It consists of three systems of staves. The first system (measures 1-3) features a treble staff with a forte (f) dynamic and a bass staff with a forte (f) dynamic. The second system (measures 4-6) continues the melodic and harmonic development. The third system (measures 7-9) shows a more complex texture with multiple voices. The score includes various musical notations such as slurs, ties, and fingerings (e.g., 3, 5, 7). A large, semi-transparent watermark is visible across the center of the page.

8

Musical score for measures 8-11. Measure 8 features a triplet of eighth notes in the right hand and a triplet of eighth notes in the left hand. Measures 9-11 show a change in meter to 4/4, with a triplet of eighth notes in the right hand and a triplet of eighth notes in the left hand. Measure 11 ends with a 7/8 time signature.

12

Musical score for measures 12-13. Measure 12 features a long melodic line in the right hand and a triplet of eighth notes in the left hand. Measure 13 continues the melodic line in the right hand and has a triplet of eighth notes in the left hand.

14

Musical score for measures 14-17. Measure 14 features a long melodic line in the right hand and a triplet of eighth notes in the left hand. Measures 15-17 continue the melodic line in the right hand and have a triplet of eighth notes in the left hand.
